About TEDTalks

Our Mission

Our mission is to make discovering meaningful TED Talks effortless and intelligent. We aim to move beyond popularity-based suggestions and deliver truly personalized recommendations powered by deep learning. By combining machine intelligence with human curiosity, we help users explore ideas that matter to them.

Talks tailored to your interests. Here's how:

Semantic Recommendations

We use DistilBERT-based embeddings to understand the meaning behind talk transcripts and match them to your history and preferences.

Hybrid Ranking

Talks are ranked using a combination of semantic similarity and normalized view counts—balancing relevance with popularity.

Smart Search & Discovery

Our integrated spell correction (SymSpell) ensures even mistyped queries return accurate results. Users can explore by tags, speakers, or categories.

Our Technology

Our platform is powered by a modern full-stack architecture combining machine learning with an interactive frontend:

React + Express + Flask

Our frontend is built with React and Express, while Flask serves as the bridge to the trained ML model backend.

DistilBERT for ML

We use lightweight transformer models like DistilBERT to generate embeddings and recommend talks based on semantic understanding.

Firebase Integration

Firebase handles authentication, user history, admin access, and database storage for a seamless and secure experience.

Our Story

This project was created as a Mini Project under the Department of Computer Engineering at Marwadi University. Born from the idea that users deserve smarter, meaningful content discovery, we combined deep learning with a modern tech stack to deliver a seamless recommendation experience. What started as an academic initiative evolved into a fully functioning ML-powered application that's scalable and user-first.
